several affairs secured a prize at Fine Arts Building "Nival Night," a picture woman, whose bizarre costume is lit up by a flare of light, has also been shown at several art exhibits in Chicago. A portrait picture, "Miriam," represents the artist's daughter as she was in the bloom of young girlhood, before her untimely death, some years ago.

Most of the pictures are in oil, but some of them are painted in water color. They show great versatility of talent. Some are painted in broad strokes in strong light and others in more subdued coloring, with fine painting treatment. A large picture, "Paul Cody Bentley," is the portrait of a young man in uniform, painted with marvelous fidelity. He was the son of Judge Bentley, Chicago. He was killed in France. The picture was painted from a photograph.

The exhibit will be on view at the library today and this evening and tomorrow morning and afternoon. True to the idea of the league, which is to foster art in Janesville, there will be no admission fee, trusting to voluntary contributions from art lovers to pay necessary expenses. Many of the pictures are offered for sale. The regular collection of the Art League has been left in place on the north wall, where it adds to the general effect, and can be viewed with the others.

The list of pictures in the collection follows:

"Paul Cody Bentley," "Miriam," "Spring Flowers," Lincoln Park, "Carnival Night," "The Morning Parade," "Pearlie," (Mrs. Carroll W. Clark), "Lake Kegonsa," "Morning Sun," "The Circus," (water color), "Lilies," Lincoln Park, "Charlotte," "The Rain Cloud," "A Sunny Window," "Serious Youth," "Italian," "Clock River at Janesville," (water color), "The Red House," (water color), "Backyard Beauty," "Kegonsa Corn," "Christmas Trees," "Harbor," "Rocks," "A Bit of Autumn," "Looking Toward Janesville," "Still Life," "Over the Dunes," "Picnic in the Park," "Rock River," "Peonies," "The Hurdy Gurdy Player," "Spanish Dancer," "Studio Mymple," "Spring Morning," "Summer Bloom," Lincoln Park.

The board better begin to think that the janitors are not getting paid as much as they should be. A common fireman or engineer at all mills and factories gets at least $3 to $6 a day. Our janitors are doing the same work besides the other one hundred and one things which they have to do about the building. Figure up their day's work at $30 or less a month and are not the janitors underpaid?

We need reliable trustworthy men as well as teachers in our schools. Why not pay them better wages? Any other janitor in the city is better paid than our school janitors. I hope that the teachers and janitors get a raise in their salaries.

One day, however, he sent his son over

Latest Dope on George

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN, Director
Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau,
Washington, D. C.

Mt. Vernon, Va., Nov. 17.—One of the ancient country men who guard and explain the sacred treasures of

Mt. Vernon was telling the spry looking man from Detroit how splendently and substantially George had lived. He pointed out the roomy smoke-house and kitchen, the servant quarters, the stable and coach house, the walled-in flower and vegetable gardens. Here was everything, he said, that a man could wish for. Old George sure knew how to live.

"But I didn't see any bath room in the house," said the well-groomed man from New York. "Not anything that looked like a bath tub."

"Washington didn't need any of them things," the old man explained.

"He owned 11 miles of the Potomac river."

"He could take a bath every spring, then, couldn't he?" the visitor suggested.

"He could," answered the native.

"If he needed it."

George Wasn't Stunted.

But the question of how Washington washed is immaterial. Many of our leading citizens can remember the time when they had recourse to the family tub only Saturdays and slept regularly in their undershirts, but they were not stunted as a result,

and neither was George.

there were fewer conveniences of life

REV. MAHONEY GIVEN WARM WELCOME AT ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH

A warm welcome was given to Rev. William Mahoney last evening at St. Patrick's church. The large audience which filled the auditorium. The audience was alternately stirred by the lofty patriotism of his discourse or delighted by the humorously portrayed in his apt illustrations.

He had chosen as his topic, "The Making of an American Citizen." He emphasized the part which a broad Christian education must play in the making of an American citizen.

He began his lecture with a brief historical sketch of the history of the world, giving a vivid word picture of the scene enacted at the battle of Gettysburg, 1863, when, he said, "the torch was lighted which set the world aflame with the horrors of the great civil war, which the world has never known."

He noted the gladness of the nation on Armistice day, and gave a passing tribute to the boys who were marching in a parade, the crosses in France. He portrayed the horror and indignation of right thinking people when November 11, while marching in a parade, the crosses in France. He portrayed the horror and indignation of right thinking people when November 11, while marching in a parade, the crosses in France. He portrayed the horror and indignation of right thinking people when November 11, while marching in a parade, the crosses in France.

The greatest piece of reconstruction work of the nation at this time is the education of its children so as to bring out their latent talents, and enable them to carry out God's plan in their life work.

He showed that the Catholic church had always been and had been in educational matters, and had found educational success along with the other denominations had planned anything of like nature.

The musical numbers on the program were pleasing and appropriate. Mrs. Henry Casey gave several organ numbers. George Hatch gave two vocal solos, playing his own accompaniment on the harmonium. "Canti," Mrs. Henry Casey gave a local solo. "Canti," Mrs. Henry Casey gave a local solo. "Canti," Mrs. Henry Casey gave a local solo.

AMERICAN LEGION

Two hundred members by the end of this week is the goal set by the Richard Ellis Janesville Post of the American Legion. Contemplating such an influx and a much larger one before the next monthly meeting on December 2, the post officials have had 400 blanks for charter membership applications. The total present membership totals 75, considered entirely too low.

Interest in the campaign is good. Many men are calling the post and the phone for information as to methods of joining and evidently waiting for the next meeting before signing up. To such men a warning is issued by the membership committee that if they delay too long, and do not get in now while the historical sketch of the history of the world, giving a vivid word picture of the scene enacted at the battle of Gettysburg, 1863, when, he said, "the torch was lighted which set the world aflame with the horrors of the great civil war, which the world has never known."

STREET-CARS WILL DISPLAY SPEED ON HILLS IN FEW DAYS

The six miles per hour speed of Janesville street cars on hill climbing journeys will be a thing of the past by next week, according to W. H. Dougherty, attorney for the Janesville Traction Co., who states that he expects arrangements will be completed this week whereby local cars will be operated on a single current, having nothing to do with the operation of interurban cars.

Under the present system the local 6-cent vehicles are furnished their means of locomotion from the interurban line so that whenever an interurban car is traveling north of the sub-station located just south of the city, the current for local cars is decreased. This will be done away with under the new plan.

It is hoped to have two extra cars added to the present equipment within the next few weeks so that by Dec. 15 the company may begin having cashed Christmas club checks sent through the mails to two Fifth ward women. Court records show that Cantwell has served six sentences in his life—three of them at Waupun.

CANTWELL IS HELD FOR TRIAL, NOV. 24

A plea of not guilty to the charge of forgery was made by Joseph Cantwell, when he was arraigned in municipal court before Judge Maxfield today. In default of $1,000 bail he was remanded to the county jail. Through his attorney, W. H. Dougherty, he waived his examination and asked for a trial, the date for which was set for Nov. 24 at 10 a. m.

Cantwell, a young Janesville man, was arrested as he walked out of the state penitentiary Saturday morning after serving a year's sentence for larceny. He has been charged with having cashed Christmas club checks sent through the mails to two Fifth ward women. Court records show that Cantwell has served six sentences in his life—three of them at Waupun.

The necessary supplies for a second sub-station in this city were being printed at the government printing office at Washington and in order to keep all records of the local office properly filled it was decided to postpone the opening until the delayed material arrived.

J. Cunningham, postmaster, could not state definitely as to the exact date the station would be started but as soon as the printed matter is received final action will be taken.

Leo Dalton has been appointed clerk in charge by Mr. Cunningham and the service given will be the same as that at the People's Drug store, Main and Milwaukee streets.

Progress in the drive of the Wisconsin Colleges Associated in this city was reported at the luncheon held at the "Y" this noon. The campaign is under way now throughout the entire county. The districts of Evansville, Edgerton, and Clinton entered into the campaign this morning. Reports of the work in these communities will be a feature of the luncheon tomorrow noon.

The report was received here this morning that the city of Appleton has secured $95,000 towards its quota of $97,000 and that a substantial over-subscription of the quota was the aim of all workers in that city.

No word has been received from Beloit since Saturday.

The district of Milton with a quota of $10,000, has already reported that over half of the amount has been subscribed. Returns from Beloit report $10,000 to be the first district to reach its quota.

Pig Club Sale Largely Attended

Attendance at the first annual sale of the Rock County Boys and Girls Pig club held at the Fair Grounds here Saturday was good and the interest displayed by the prospective buyers was high. The sale was not so successful as contemplated, because as it was stated by authoritative breeders present, the market is overloaded with pigs, and especially boars. The latter were in great evidence at the grounds.

It was not because of the quality of the stock that the sale did not meet expectations of the young breeders, for that was high and said by older persons present to be such that would do credit to more experienced hog-risers. Prices went as high as $85 for a few, while others brought around $30.

Advice given the young breeders was to get rid of their boars earlier.

TRACTOR MAKES DEBUT IN LOGGING CAMP
[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Marquette, Nov. 17.—For the first time in the history of logging in this country, a tractor was used in the logging of the J. W. Wells company for skidding logs. Representatives of the Cleveland concern which makes the tractors, spent a week in the woods watching the work with a view of making necessary changes for practical work in the logging woods. It was operated in swamps where the use of teams is impossible and performed well. It was operated by an overseas man who had experience with tractors and tanks in France and was better qualified than the driver sent by the factory.

News Notes From Movieland

—BY DAISY DEAN—

No more suitable story for Elinor Field than "Hearts and Hands." From the well-known novel by Harold McGrath could be found, in the opinion of those who have witnessed the first presentation of this story in film form as produced by the National Film Corporation of America. Not only does this production mark the debut of Miss Field in the ranks of stardom, but it is also one of the few works of McGrath to reach the screen.

Those who have followed the career of Miss Field through the exciting demands of comedy production work, and have seen her emerge from the field with success, will look forward eagerly to review her work in a more serious and interesting capacity.

Miss Field started her movie career a bare two years ago in the slapstick comedy roles. She was but a young high school girl then and her rise to stardom has been sudden and well deserved.

MOORE COMPLETES FIRST
Owen Moore has already completed "Pleasantly Jim," the production in which he is making his debut as a Selznick star. Mr. Moore was at one time one of the leading favorites of the screen, but he deserted the silent drama for several months and engaged in other business. Playing opposite Mr. Moore is Zena Keefe, the girl who is going to be starred by Myron Selznick next year.

DIRECTING LOUISE GLAUM
Fred Niblo is to direct for the first time some other star than his wife, Louise Glaum. And it is to be the w. k. vamp, Louise Glaum.

NORMA'S FIRST
Much interest has been manifested on the part of exhibitors throughout the country as to what story would be selected for Norma Talmadge's first picture for her big 1920 contract with the First National Exhibitors' circuit. A statement was sent out from English Livingstone, Miss Talmadge's director of publicity, that, other rumors notwithstanding, it has been definitely decided that "Daughter of Two Worlds," from the book of Le Roy Scott, has been selected for Norma's debut as a First National star. Miss Talmadge began work on "Daughter of Two Worlds" several days ago.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Letters May be Addressed to Mrs. Thompson, in Care of the Gazette.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please tell me what the old-fashioned husking bee was and the relation of the red ear to it. Who is supposed to have possession of the red ear, the boy or the girl?

SUSAN AND SAL.

The old-fashioned husking bee was given either as a means of entertainment or to help some one with the husking. The community gathered together for the purpose of husking corn. Older apples, doughnuts, pumpkin pie and chestnuts were served as refreshments.

Either the boy or the girl could hold the red ear. If the boy found it he had the privilege of kissing his girl, and if the girl found it, she jumped up and ran until her sweetheart caught her and kissed her.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Will you please tell me if it is good form for a young lady to start to correspond with a young man, or whether it is in case the young lady is leaving town and the young man has asked her to write to him?

How long should she wait before she answers his letter?

UNCERTAIN.

It is the gentleman's place to write first. It is all right to disregard a convention sometimes, however, and write first if he has requested a letter.

It is all right for her to say, "Come to see me some day," or "I leave the time indefinite for him to decide."

She should answer the letter when she feels inclined to, anywhere from two to four days to a week. If he writes less often, however, she should follow his example and let as long spaces elapse between letters as he does.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am nearly 16. Last summer I went away and was introduced to a boy of 18. He was a very nice lad. We have been corresponding since. About how often do you think we should write? A THADDEUS.

Write once in 10 days or two weeks.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a young girl 18 years old. I have worked in a shop here for about eight months.

I like my work very much, but I think I will have to give up my position for I am in love with my employer. What would you advise me to do?

THANK YOU.

You will like other positions, too, because other positions are so interesting. I would advise you to get another position at once. You can probably make a change for more money, too, at your age it means a great deal to say that you have had experience.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please publish list of articles that would be suitable for birthday presents for a man about 35 and one about 55. Neither of them smoke. Other times I have given linen handkerchiefs and also silk.

HELEN.

Cuff links, fountain pen, book, bill-folder, socks or stationery would make an acceptable present for either man.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have gone out twice with a certain fellow and when I go to bed I can't sleep, keep thinking of him all day when at work.

Would you call that love? I am 18 and he is 33. Is he too old for me?

Yours is a case of infatuation. You imagine now that you love the man, but time will probably teach you that your love is only a passing fancy and you will have to look further for love.

Yes, he is too old for you.

RAIDED VELVET FROCK IS SMART

By ELOISE.

Velvet will always be a popular fabric for winter frocks and suits. This year the shops are showing many moderately priced velveteens which are made up in attractively simple styles for the debutante and junior miss. It is really too extravagant to buy these young girls heavy silk velvet or chiffon velvet, but the young matron will want the best velvet obtainable for she can use it not only but many seasons. Brown, gray and blue are the favored colors with the usual navy and black in the lead.

This gown of black velvet, appropriate for afternoon wear at home or abroad, is a paradoxical thing. The plain basque-like bodice, the straight skirt, long tight sleeves and high collar, all bespeak uncompromising utility and economy, yet the elaborate detailing and deep hands of fox contradict it all, and proclaim extravagance. Such a frock is particularly suited to looking and comfortable for the busy day when one can still go coattless.

SAVE YOUR SUGAR

Chocolate Cake—One-fourth cup fat, three tablespoons sugar (brown or white), two eggs, one cup corn syrup, one-half cup milk, one-half cup one-half cup milk, one teaspoon vanilla, one and one-half cups wheat flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt.

Cream the fat and sugar, add the egg yolk, syrup and melted chocolate together and add alternately with the milk. Add vanilla and fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Bake in loaf or layers in a moderate oven.

For Frosting—Cook one-half cup corn syrup until it forms a long thread when dropped from a spoon. Pour over the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and beat until thick enough to spread.

Spice Cakes—These little individual spice cakes, baked in muffin tins, are always popular.

Three tablespoons fat, four tablespoons sugar, three-quarter cup corn syrup, one egg, one-half cup milk, two cups flour, three teaspoons baking powder, one-quarter teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, one-quarter teaspoon clove, one-quarter teaspoon nutmeg, one-eighth teaspoon Mix in order given.

Oatmeal Cookies—These oatmeal drop cookies are very good and they use no sugar.

One-half cup fat, one-half cup molasses, one-half cup corn syrup, one egg, one and three-quarter cups rolled oats, one-half cup raisins, one-half cup chopped nuts, one and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half teaspoon soda, three-quarter teaspoon cinnamon, one-half teaspoon cloves, one-half teaspoon allspice.

Mix and drop from a spoon on greased baking sheet. Bake in a quick oven.

Along this line, remember that the old-fashioned gingerbread calls for no sugar. Why not serve it more often as an autumn dessert? It is delicious served warm with whipped cream.

RAISIN CANDIES

Raisin Fudge—Two cups sugar, one cup milk, butter size of egg, one-half cup chocolate, cook, stir continually until bubbles break slowly. Add one-half pound walnuts and one-half pound California seeded or seedless raisins. Stir until stiff and pour into buttered pans. When cool cut into squares.

Raisin Chocolate—Two cups brown sugar, one-half cup milk, one tablespoon chocolate. Let boil until when dropped in cool water it forms a ball. Take from fire and stir until it becomes like cake dough.

Then add one teaspoon vanilla, one-half cup California seeded or seedless raisins. Stir until cream.

THE WISHING PLANE

When the little old woman told the kidnappers that the rag peddler had seen Jack and Jane playing in the yard the men knew that, should the peddler know of the kidnapping, he would tell the police and that even if he did not know of it he might tell someone of the two-little-children who had been seen in this way reveal the hiding place. So they realized that, unless they wanted to risk being captured, they must leave the children away from the house.

They were trying to decide on a place when the messenger they had sent to the hotel to deliver the notes to Captain Hovey returned and reported that he was sure the boy to whom he had given the notes had delivered them. It made the leader of the band doubly angry to think that just when they had sent the note demanding the money and had nothing to do but wait for an answer—as he thought—the children should be seen.

Many places were suggested by the members of the band. One of them wanted to carry the children at night into the buried city of Pompeii, where the children had been early in their visit in Naples. He was sure that Jack and Jane could be kept hidden for weeks in the ruins.

Another member wanted to take them far out into the country in an auto and keep them in a farm house. Other members had other plans, but the kidnappers always decided that there was too much chance that the children would be seen or that someone would become suspicious of the men's action.

"Ah, I have it," said the leader. "There is an old man boat anchored many miles in the bay. I know the man who is living on it to take care of it and keep it from sinking. We will take the children there. He will help us to help us for he has robbed many places in Naples and other cities with his hand and if he refuses to help us we will threaten to tell the police who he is an old boat man."

"We can bundle the kids up in bed clothes long enough to carry them down to the dock right away. We dare not wait until night."

"Two of you men will come along with me now to help oil up the engine of our motor boat. The others will stay and help the little old woman bring the children to the dock."

"In about an hour the two children up in bed quilts so you can carry them. Be sure to keep their mouths so they can't yell and attract attention," ordered the leader. Then, turning to the little old woman he said:

"You collect everything that belongs to the children and bring it along. Don't leave anything in the house that will tell the police or this Captain Hovey or Signor Angelo that the children have been kept here."

After giving a few other instructions to the men about the route to be taken down the motor boat dock the leader and his helpers left.

The whole plan had been mapped out in Italian, as usual, so Jack and Jane knew the least idea of what was about to happen. But when they saw the little old woman hurriedly collecting her clothes into a bundle they realized that they were to be taken to some new hiding place.

And, an hour later, when the men seized them and tied them up equal portions of celery, walnuts and apples cut in pieces and mixed with mayonnaise dressing; serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with curled celery.

Stuff Tomato Salad—Peel small tomatoes and cut out the hard pieces around the stem ends to make tomato cups; sprinkle inside slightly with salt and pepper and fill with equal portions of celery, walnuts and apples cut in pieces and mixed with mayonnaise dressing; serve on lettuce leaves and garnish with curled celery.

She Married an Average Man

By ZOE BECKLEY.

Jim is practically well again. I can no longer make his illness an excuse for not going to Athena Haste. Yet Jim obstinately refuses to accompany me and meet the fact that if he does not go with me people will think it odd.

I refuse to make a monkey of myself and Jim for the tenth time. "Neither you are my wife or this man's lover. If you are my wife, you will not care to meet the old Sander. I have tried to meet you, to meet him, I shall be a mere husband, a spineless creature, a hen-peck, a tame cat, a thing to be pitied or laughed at."

Jim, how can you talk that way! You insist upon creating a false situation. If I meet Eric Sands I shall be self-conscious and miserable. If I refuse to meet him, I will be shouting to the world that I am afraid because of something between us. And it isn't so, Jim! There is nothing between Eric and me except—

"Except—except!" Jim broke in. "Nothing except that I hold for you an attraction that I do not. You can't deny it! See? You can't deny it!"

"Jim, darling, you're doing us all great wrong! You're actually forcing me to think things I do not want to think. Please, dear, be reasonable. Let us all be friends together. Aren't there any women you knew before you met me for whom you held a sort of—of tender regard?"

"A boy-and-girl affection, perhaps, feeling of gratitude and comradeship?"

I realize now I shouldn't have said this. But I had no thought of any special person in my mind.

"I suppose you mean Fanny Frisbie, the woman I thought the purse for last Christmas you've never forgotten that, have you?"

It made me furious to have him misunderstand me so. Heretofore I have viewed his obstinacy as in part a result of his illness. I have been patient, thinking that when he was himself again things would all be right. But this unjust, senseless, blood heat in my temples, "I had forgotten it," I said, "but your reminding me makes me also remember the box of letters that you said were 'business junk' and which I came across the other day in cleaning the hall closet. Perhaps those are from Mrs. Frisbie?"

"It was nasty of me. But I don't pretend to be an angel person, a sweet, untrammelled saint. I'm just an ordinary woman, with red hair and a temper that gets out of control sometimes."

Jim turned white, whether with anger or dismay I don't know, and I was too excited to care.

"No matter whose letters they are," he cracked, "I don't keep up my love affairs after marriage!"

"You are the one who calls it a love affair. An assertion constantly repeated," I said slowly, "gets accepted sooner or later as a fact."

"Then it is a fact that you love Eric Sands?" asked Jim doggedly.

"For God's sake, Jim, be decently reasonable! I have not even seen the man for seven years. He may be married. He is ill, not yet a month out of the military hospital. He may not have the faintest interest in me except as an old acquaintance. I won't have you ruin everything by these absurd and uncalled-for speculations."

"Would you be willing," said my husband, quietly and slowly, the minister reading the marriage vows, "to have the writer of those old letters of mine come back to me just as Eric Sands is coming back to you?"

"Yes!" I answered, fervently and honestly.

Then suddenly it flashed upon my consciousness that if I said yes, truth in my own words proved that I did not love my husband as I ought to.

Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Noted Physician and Author.

Dr. Brady will answer all signed letters pertaining to health. Writers' names are not printed. Only inquiries of general interest are answered in this column, but all letters will be answered by mail if written in ink and a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Requests for removal of names from list of individuals whose names cannot be considered. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this paper.

THE DANGER OF BEING ALIVE (9)

Degeneracy is inseparable from that best of civilizations which leads us into artificialities. Our physical life, as well as our moral weakness, increase as we adopt one of these artificialities. Starch, heat, boiled shirts, corsets and toothpick shoes have done the race irreparable harm, but these are only trifling instances.

At just what age the degenerative growth, in the sense of development, attains maturity is impossible to state definitely, because it varies in different individuals. In most cases it is reached between 24 and 28 years of age; in women between 22 and 28.

The trend of civilization seems to be toward degeneracy. It is obvious to any thoughtful observer, in dress and adornment particularly. Among most creatures of lower orders the male bears the glad race and practices polygamy. When the human male affects too much adornment people question his motive, and the suspicion is warranted, for character often betrays itself in the individual's attire.

Soldiers do not go into battle wearing toothpick shoes. Hospital nurses do not go on duty wearing French heels. Sensible people today look under a silk hat for a charlatan, an undertaker or a politician on parade.

Great men and women are so simply attired and so unaffected in manner that you wonder when you first meet them whether someone isn't impersonating the boss.

Action is as essential in youth as in old age. The degenerate of old age is a peace, quiet and repose in old age. The degenerate of old age is a peace, quiet and repose in old age.

Baseball is a great game, a fine open air exercise for sedentary people. It is even an excellent sport for those who work with their muscles. But the office man, the business man, the professional man cannot substitute a sport for a game, he cannot substitute the vicarious excitement he feels as spectator of the sport for the action his muscles crave as a player in the game. Nor does it help his nerves to scream and yell in the grandstand.

Tobacco temporarily quiets the craving to play, dulls the impulse to action, but nervousness, an effeminate weakness, is the inevitable result.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Actual Result of Reading this Column

A maiden some years out of school had cold hands and feet as a rule. It sometimes taught her to feel as she ought—two feet and a hand in a splanchine pool. A housewife who high heels and laced, grew yearly more concerned at the wrinkles and excessive Doc Brady advises have made her look slender and chaste.

An actress named Cordelia Devere looked like the proverbial straw. She Brady'd on yeast. Her weight as increased she grew twice as much as before. A tired business man, as they say, could scarce find a place to put his head. Dr. Brady and feels well repaid—he takes two on the head a day. Dr. Brady, Doctor, do not take offense at my rhymes. I have honest intent. For this is my mission, to preach to you in verse, to instruct you with sense. (P. T. K.)

"Then it is safe enough whatever happens. The only thing we can do is this: tell those girls and the mother the whole truth—tell them at once, before Kirby can return, and then help them to get out of this country. It is not necessary to Elotse to go, unless she desires to, but there is no other safe course for Della and Rene. They must reach a northern state before Kirby can lay hands on them. Could Della pass for a white woman?"

"Not in the South; still she could travel as Rene's maid. But I do not believe it is possible for the two to escape in that way. Knox, understand, I'd be willing to risk it if there were any show. How can it be done? On the average at this time of year there isn't a steamboat above here once a month. If we did get them onto a boat they would have to travel straight south as far as the Ohio. Kirby would be sure to find them in a matter of days. There is not one chance in a thousand that they make it."

"And less than that, if they remain here for Kirby to get. Yes, I know, I retorted bitterly. 'Now look out, Haines. I am going to carry out this plan alone if you will not back me in it. I am not talking about steamboats, they are out of the question, and I am not talking about the day. All they would need would be two negro men, sufficient food, and a boat big enough to carry them safely. You have small boats, surely?'"

"I got one, Massa Knox," burst out Pete eagerly. "She's down by the mouth of de creek, sah, an' she sure is a mighty good boat. We could load her up right here, an' I'd be one ob de niggers for ter take dem ladies down river. I so a free boy, an' nobody care what I do go!"

These unexpected words heartened me, strengthened my own resolve,

Orfordville News

Orfordville, Nov. 15.—A telegram was received Friday from Detective Loose who was on a date on the lecture course, stating that he would be unable to come as he had been called for inspection. This is the second postponement of this lecture.

Ralph Keithley has entered the employ of the Parker Pen company. He will begin Monday.

Both the local yards are entirely out of hard coal. Nearly everyone has a small supply, however, and doubtless more will be received in time to prevent an actual shortage.

The Odd Fellows have added a billiard table to the equipment at their club room. It was installed Friday.

Albert Gilbertson will move the H. O. Woe residence which he recently purchased of H. F. Silverthorn to a lot near Mrs. Hendrickson's on Selot street.

Fred Cole is erecting a garage on his property on Broadhead street. He will erect a residence in the spring.

Evelyn Eskin has rented the Mrs. G. Anderson house and will move his family in a short time, he having sold his farm in the town of Plymouth.

Neenah.—The recent cold snap has practically put an end to one of the best duck hunting seasons in years. The largest flocks have left for the southland, hunters assert, chased thither by the freezing weather of the past few days.
